KING EDWARD VII. AND DAVID LLOYD-GEORGE, WHO LEADS LIBERALS IN HOT CAMPAIGN.

RECENT SNAPSHOT OF KING EDWARD

DAVID LLOYD GEORGE

This year's general elections in England have been accompanied by more bitterness, radicalism and all around excitement than any similar event in that realm in a century. Vituperation and mud slinging have rarely been indulged in by speakers and politicians of repute heretofore in England, but the traditional dignity of these men was cast to the winds in the present fight. Even as long ago as the budget fight in the house of lords, which really marked the beginning of the campaign, scores of hot headed young peers armed themselves and vowed they would use their weapons if molested by the Liberal sympathizers outside the parliament house. A Conservative member of parliament while making a speech in Hammersmith was heckled by a Radical hearer and, promptly stepping down from the speaker's stand, gave his opponent a sound drubbing. The public meetings in various parts of London, Glasgow and Birmingham were frequently attended by scenes of disorder. King Edward has counseled moderation on the part of the Conservatives, but his counsel has been of little avail.

"ROAD TO RUIN" TO BE REFORMED AND CHANGED.

STAMFORD STREET OF LONDON TO BE CLEANED OF "WHITE SLAVE" AGENTS.

LONDON, Jan. 21—Stamford street, immortalized by Mr. Labouchere as "The Road to Ruin," is to be reformed and its name changed. Already all the "white slave" agents, who infested the street, posing as theatrical men in order to lure young girls to their ruin, have been driven out.

"The wickedest street of London" is still sad looking enough; there are poor homes to be seen through long first floor windows, and ill-shod children in basements and gutters; but working families also occupy reasonable tenements; small trades thrive and one is as safe there on a dark night as on the Embankment among the trams. The variety agent has gone, and the Girdle Gang are still safe from troubling under the restraint of walls and bars for "His Majesty's pleasure."

PRIMA DONNA BEGINS WESTERN TOUR.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21—Mme. Tetrazzini's western tour, which begins today, will continue to February 8th, and will include Toronto, Cleveland, Detroit, Columbus, St. Louis, Kansas City, Milwaukee, Buffalo, and Montreal.

ALLEGED THAT SLAVERY EXISTS IN SOUTH AMERICA.

COOLIES OF BRITISH GUIANA ARE SAID TO BE TREATED WORSE THAN NEGROES OF BELGIAN AFRICA.

LONDON, Jan. 21—Allegations that coolies employed on the sugar plantations of Demerara, or British Guiana on the north coast of South America, are treated with greater severity than the wretched negroes of Belgian Africa, have reached the foreign office and will be thoroughly investigated. Instances of most inhuman cruelty are cited by influential gentlemen conversant with affairs of the American colony. The coolies are said to be held in practical slavery.

THREE UNIVERSITIES IN TRIANGULAR DEBATE.

CHICAGO, Jan. 21—The triangular debating league, composed of Northwestern University and the universities of Michigan and Chicago, holds its annual debate tonight. Each university is represented by two teams, the contests taking place simultaneously in Chicago, Madison and Ann Arbor. The question for debate is: Resolved, That the experience of the United States has shown that a protective tariff should for a time be a national policy.

AVIATOR'S THRILLING ESCAPE FROM BURNING AEROPLANE.

MACHINE CAUGHT FIRE WHEN AT A GREAT HEIGHT—COOL
ACTION SAVED AVIATOR'S LIFE

ORAN, Algeria, Jan. 21—Olie Slagers, the French aviator today had the most spectacular escape from death in the history of aeroplaning.

At a great height his aeroplane caught fire from the engine. Slagers coolly turned his machine earthward and was coming down with great speed, hoping to reach the ground before the blazing wings of the machine collapsed. When within thirty feet of the ground the heat was so intense that the aviator jumped. He was badly burned and bruised but is expected to recover. The machine fell, a blazing ruin, a few feet farther on.

PROMINENT MEN WANT SHORTER BALLOTS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21—In response to a call issued by President Woodrow Wilson, of Princeton University, a number of prominent men interested in public welfare, met in conference at the Hotel Astor today to discuss the short ballot principle. The short ballot idea is a proposal to reduce the number for elective offices by putting the minor elective offices on the appointive list, thus simplifying the work of the voter.

TO SMASH RECORDS FOR FROLICsome FUN.

CLUB BALL TO BE HELD
NEW YORK THIS EVENING
BY GAY BOHEMIANS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21—This year's Club Ball which will be held at the Terrace Garden, promises to smash all records for frolicsome amusement among the gay Bohemians.
Although the Heeper Club has not yet had checks seventy five organization, its annual balls remain the favorites of the good-time flocking crowds of Gotham.

Many novel features have been considered and arranged for. Several of the Herman Rosenthal, the chairman of the arrangement committee, declined to make public, even to associates on the committee. It leaked out, however, that they are on Broadway will welcome and enjoy the attractions.

The advertised attractions are the shadowgraph march which only those wearing costumes take part, and the amateur women's marathon race, which caused a sensation last year. This year careful investigation will be made of the athletic committee of the Hee-per Club of each and every entry, to avoid imposition on the part of constants, as last year's winner of the race was, upon investigation, found to be a professional woman. Marathon racer, who had smashed several records for the Marathon distance.

USING THE BIBLE NO LONGER REQUIRED IN ENGLAND.

NEW REGULATION FOR TAKING OATHS NOW IN VOGUE IN GREAT BRITAIN.

LONDON, Jan. 21—Under a new regulation in effect today, important changes have been made in the requirements for taking of oaths in English courts. "Kissing the Book," a custom which had been enforced in England for so many centuries, is no longer obligatory. Scientists assert that the practice is likely to result in the spreading of disease germs in examinations of many Bibles used in law courts confirmed this theory. The new form of taking an oath is as follows:

"I swear by Almighty God that the evidence I shall give to the court (or jury) touching the matters in question shall be the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth."

Each juror in the same way will swear "that I will well and truly try the issues joined between the parties and give a true verdict according to the evidence."

"Kissing the Book" has not been officially abolished. The new act says any oath may be administered, "etc." anyone who prefers the old method may still "Kiss the Book," but by the act all officers administering the oath must use the new form, unless the person taking the oath objects.

One of Daytona's crowning glories is the beautiful beach. No one who ever sat upon its warm, perfumed sands, so hot that even the slightest breeze is a pleasure, has not been made aware of its beauties. It is not only a beautiful beach, but it is also a beautiful city. The city of Daytona is a beautiful city, and the beach is a beautiful beach. The city of Daytona is a beautiful city, and the beach is a beautiful beach.

SEABREEZE and DAYTONA BEACH, two enterprising and progressive towns on the Halifax Peninsula, are geographically one although incorporated as separate municipalities. The towns parallel the peninsula north and south for a distance of from three and one-half to four miles, and extend east and west from the surging seas of the Atlantic Ocean to the Halifax River, the beautiful tide-water stream that sets them apart from Daytona with which they have close communication by means of three bridges, as well as a half-hour ferry service.

Seabreeze and Daytona Beach are essentially summer and winter resorts and are making hundreds of new friends every year among those who desire to escape the discomforting extremes of heat and cold, and their hotels and boarding houses are now receiving splendid patronage from the most discriminating class of tourists.

The mean average temperature 80 degrees in the summer and 70 degrees in the winter, with an occasional extra rise or drop of a few days' duration, marks this as one of the most healthful locations in any section of the country, north, east, south or west.

The ocean itself, with its marvelous beach, hard as macadam and smooth as a floor, is the greatest attraction, although earth and air and sky seem to have entered into a combination to enhance its every charm. The beach is the famous automobile race course where every world's straightaway record has been made, and all these records it continues to hold without rivalry.

The sand of this famous speedway is composed largely of the shells of the coquina clam, which are about one-half inch long and very thin. For ages Nature has been rolling them up, washing them back into the surf and pulverizing them. Examined under the microscope each particle is round, unfit for mortar, builders say, because its smoothness prevents its holding together, yet, strange to contemplate, the very moment a wave leaves the wet, apparently soft beach, these round particles settle down into a cement almost as hard as asphalt, beyond the comprehension of one who has not seen it. Repairs are unnecessary, as twice each 24 hours it is entirely rebuilt by the tides. The beach has a width of 300 to 500 feet, and can be used from two hours after until two hours before high tide, thus giving an average of seven or eight hours for automobiling some part of each day.

Seabreeze and Daytona Beach each have a permanent population of approximately 1500. Sanitary ordinances are strictly enforced, streets and sidewalks are well kept, and new streets are being opened as fast as the increasing population demands. Besides hotels and boarding houses there is ample cottage accommodation for all winter visitors.

Seabreeze contains a handsome opera house and a Congregational Church at Daytona Beach is a M. E. Church. An excellent high school is situated near the division line between the two towns. Both towns have enterprising business establishments, as is evidenced by the advertisements on the left and right.

All the attractiveness of Seabreeze applies to Daytona Beach, the two towns being so similarly situated. The development of Daytona Beach has been rapid as phenomenal as its sister on the north, and each year there is a substantial growth. The great sand dunes have been leveled and handsome homes have been built for both winter and all-year-round occupancy. Flowering shrubs have been planted, which are covered with a wealth of bloom both summer and winter.

Work of rebuilding the Clarendon hotel is now in progress. This magnificent pre-war structure, which is to contain 250 rooms when completed will be the peer of any hotel in Florida. The site is immediately north of the Clarendon, Florida East Coast Automobile Association. The Ocean Pier is a great attraction to fishermen and it is used summer and winter with enthusiastic disciples of Frank Walton, who find it nothing unusual to land fish weighing several hundred pounds.

By L. C. DEMAREE.
One of Daytona's crowning glories is her incomparable beach. No one who ever set foot upon its smooth, packed sands; no one who ever pedaled a bicycle over its expanse; no one who ever drove a prancing pair of horses and listened to the popping of their steel shoes upon its asphaltum-like face; no one who ever steered a high-power automobile down the broad stretch of wave-washed and surf-packed sand but realized that it is a world-beater, a world-wonder. Go stand upon this wide speedway and see the happy souls flit by in joyous mood, and answer whether this is not one of the seven modern wonders.

The Placid, Pellucid Halifax River.
Where think you is water with more picturesque surroundings? Nearly a mile wide, fringed with tropical vegetation, artistic cottages with roomy verandas looking out upon her bosom, gamey food fishes in countless numbers beckoning, as it were, to those with rod and reel; her bosom fleck-ed with duck and coot and snowy-winged sea birds, which sit about as if for the sport of bobbing upon the waves; watch that lubberly old white headed pelican pouch a fat mullet, and that fish hawk struggling upward with his floundering load he snatched from the water.

See the beautiful launches, spick and span, their hampers and lockers bulging with refreshments both solid and liquid ready for a cruise upon the beautiful surface. Take out your field glass and sweep the river from Ormond bridge to Ponce Park light house, then say whether the Halifax isn't a thing of beauty and a joy forever, and one of the modern wonders.

The Enchantingly Picturesque Ridgewood.
Ridgewood avenue is upon the crest of a broad ridge, straight as the crow flies and the wide-spreading branches of the heavy-trunked live oaks extend their giant arms across the magnificent vista, forming an arch, and from these extended arms great festoons of Spanish moss sway as the trade winds from the tropic seas fan them. Looking straight ahead down this white shell street one has the impression of a fairy path with elfish draperies, but as you move along and cast an eye first to the right and then to the left you see distinguished cottage homes in the most delightful settings.

See the glistening leaf of the grand magnolia which nature has varnished as no artists' brush ever could; and the cabbage palms with their burdens of showy fruit and swaying palms; see the lovely holly with its exquisite berry; see the climbing vines run riot in the trees; see the cyclo-pogon forms which gain a foothold on the great oaks and stately palms, and surely you will join in the chorus and say that this is a world wonder for beauty.

Surpassing Beauty of Our Cottage Homes.
No one of Daytona's attractions, perhaps, commands more nearly universal attention and praise than does the artistic cottages. The owners of these charming villas hail from every corner of the country and they bring their own architectural plans and build upon them, and, as the architecture of one section of the country differs from the architecture of another, so do our homes differ in outward appearance and structural beauty from one another. There are no monotonous rows of strikingly similar buildings but the eye, as it sweeps by, is treated to a kaleidoscopic change which keeps the mind wondering.
"What next?"

It is not only the exterior of many of these homes which rivets attention; within they are models of convenience, and the finishing and furnishing give evidence of the elegance and cultivation of those who worked it all out. Indeed, it is the interior arrangement and artistic furnishing and shading, more than the exterior appearance that gives a surpassing charm to Daytona homes. This feature justly merits prominence as another wonder.
Streets and Pavements the Most and Best.

Why the Architect of the Universe chose to give Daytona the most admirable, the most picturesque natural setting of all the cities of the South is not revealed, but that such is a fact must be apparent to the most superficial observer. With such lavish wealth of natural beauty it became an easy thing for the hand of man to give the finishing touches which have wrought out the colors and outlines of the big picture.

Man did all this in the laying out of the streets with their wide margins of parkage. The entire city becomes a great park, with driveways intersecting, miles upon miles of driveways so good as to attract motorists from all over the continent.

And as for the pavements, pavements that look and act like granite, —where else between the eastern and western seas are so many miles in proportion to inhabitants? The pavement question stands with the street as one of the chief drawing cards. Till some unheard of place reports more and better, Daytona throws down the gauntlet to the world.

Squirrels, Flowers, Birds and Frut.
Whatever one's shortcomings and however indifferent or even callous one may be to many things, the mere mention of "flowers and Squirrels, birds and fruits" will send a thrill that is reflected in distended pupils and pricked ears.

For every visitor with a spare goober there is a bunny ready to come and accept your gift. He will sit bolt upright and know into the meat, casting furtive, saucy glances at you meanwhile.

Flowers. Usually fresh and blooming the year round you are reminded of Goldsmith's couplet where Smiling spring its earliest visit paid And summer's lingering blossoms are delayed.

In one yard roses of variegated hues predominate; another household has a penchant for the poinsettia and the premises are aflame; another is hidden in a jungle of tall cane. Variety is the spice of life and here is where you find it.

The birds flit in, and with their joyous notes help to give fullness and symmetry to the picture.

As for fruits, choice citrus fruits, Daytona yields the palm to none for quality and quantity per acre. There are scores of citrus groves in proximity to the city, branches bending to the earth with their burdens of luscious golden globes, which for beauty, prolificacy and all desirable qualities would truly astonish you.
The Fastest Autos and The Finest Out.

The seventh world wonder, do you ask? Come, whether from Missouri or from Maine, from Kalamazoo or Timbuktoo, and you will be "shown." Here is where the world's record for speed is broken with every recurring season. Autos, the biggest, the fastest, and the finest are up daily parade and the big show is as free as the pure artesian water from the thousands of flowing wells. It is a continuous 'show with constantly shifting scene.

Everything goes, from a three-power, up to a 20-horse power, and all degrees of speed from a snail to a two-mile-a-minute clip. You will probably catch the spirit, when you are on the roads and the beach are yours.
The Florida sunshine is free, the balmy ocean breezes are free, the birds and squirrels and flowers are free, the sparkling fountain water is free and you will have to go down in your wallet only for coin for auto, and bed and board.

This is no fanciful picture. It's all here. It is drawing other thousands and holding them enthralled, it will charm and hold you. Come and see.

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—This is a black day in the annals of lake navigation being the sixteenth anniversary of the wreck of the steamer "Clatsop," of the Graham & Morton line, which went to the bottom of the lake with twenty-nine men on board during a terrific gale on Lake Michigan on January 21, 1885. The steamer, which was commanded by Captain Edward Stines, and, in addition to the crew, carried only one passenger, sailed from Milwaukee, Wis., the night of January 20th, bound for St. Joseph, Mo., and was never heard from again. The steamer foundered the following day, but the exact spot has never been located.

CONSTITUTION ARRIVED AT PALM BEACH LAST EVENING.

ON TIME ON ITS INITIAL TRIP—PASSENGERS ARRIVE HAPPY AND PLEASED.

PALM BEACH, Jan. 20.—Captain McCoy's good ship Constitution, of the Daytona to Palm Beach boat route through the canals connecting Indian river and Lake Worth, arrived on time this afternoon at four o'clock at the Palm Beach dock with a nice party of tourists, who were enthusiastic over the boat trip particularly the latter part extending through the Narrows at Jupiter lighthouse and vicinity. One can have all the comforts of a private yacht at very little expense and put up at comfortable hotels each night and lay over for a few days or a week at Palm Beach and take the next boat back and see more of the natural beauties of the State than on a dozen trips by rail.

The new ship of the McCoy Bros. is more roomy than the old one and draws so little water that she has no trouble in getting over shallow bars. She arrived, as usual, on time, which means that those on board got comfortably roomed and in nice time for dinner on shore at Hotel Palm Beach.

Among those on board the Constitution were F. C. Barker, St. Regis Lake; Miss A. R. Barnes, Boston; E. T. Elliot and wife, H. H. Crosby, Colorado; Miss Laura Eskert, Mrs. P. Eckert, Cincinnati; Miss Sarah Pennell, New Smyrna; Miss Maude Paulding, M. G. Paulding, New York.

The Wall Street Game.

The burning question on Wall street is always whether stocks will go up or down. If any man were able to answer it correctly he could make himself a millionaire in a day, but speculation is neither a fortune telling nor a gambling game, and the man who believes otherwise is bound to lose his money and to join the ranks of the disconsolate, disgusted and depleted who make the outcry against the evils of Wall street, says Leslie's Weekly.

The winner in Wall street is gifted with the same business characteristics that bring success in any line of enterprise. He utilizes them in buying and selling stocks, just as he would if he were engaged in merchandizing. He knows, for instance, that prosperous conditions are reflected by what are called the bank exchanges, by railway earnings, the record of failures, the condition of the iron market, the balance of trade and especially the outlook for the crops.

Baked Cheese Omelets.

Baked cheese omelets are most appetizing and may be prepared in several ways. A good recipe calls for a pint of milk, four large eggs, one heaping tablespoonful of flour, one of butter and a teaspoonful of salt. Let the milk heat on the stove until it reaches the boiling point. Beat the butter and flour to a cream and gradually mix it with the hot milk, taking care that no lumps form. Cook the mixture for five minutes. Let it cool and add the egg after beating the yolks and the whites separately. The whites should be beaten to as stiff a froth as possible. Pour the omelet into a buttered dish, sprinkle the top with grated cheese and fold some of the cheese through the omelet. The more cheese used the better. Let the omelet bake for half an hour or until it is solid, so that it will not "run" when dipped out with a spoon. It should be baked in a hot oven.—New York Tribune.

Corn, Oats and Wheat as "Seeds."

School children in the crowded part of New York do not speak of corn and oats and wheat by those names, but always refer to them as "seeds." The other day in one of the big schools the teacher was talking to her pupils about gardening. She ended with a request for each pupil to bring a few seeds the next day to be planted in the window boxes. The following morning the children appeared mostly with either oats, wheat or corn. While putting a few grains of each in the earth the teacher referred to them by their familiar names. One of the girls in the class took courage to "set the teacher right" and said: "Some one must 'a' told you wrong, teacher. That," pointing to the wheat, "is bread seed, an' that yellow stuff ain't corn; it's pigeon seed. We always call them that in the block where we live."—New York Sun.

Poser For the Husband.

Returning home from Atlantic City, a Frankford man drew a photograph carefully from his pocket and showed it to his wife. Said he: "There's a man who's in love with you."

It was not a good picture, one of those cheap pingpong photographs. The husband had not been in a condition to be well "taken," and there was little likeness. His wife looked at the picture for several minutes, very much puzzled. Finally she spoke up:

"Why, it's Jim. Where did you see him? And where did you get this? And what did he tell you?"—Philadelphia Times.

To Tame Him.

"So you're going to introduce baseball among the prisoners? I don't approve. What will become of discipline?"

"If a man gets too obstreperous," replied the warden confidently, "we'll make him umpire."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Mrs. Tute was the only one in the audience who was kindly active to dissent. She soon noticed that the guard had taken his tobacco through the station, and a failure of their meeting to show themselves had followed a feeling of society. She pointed out these things to her husband, but he was fascinated with his son, which was showing remarkable results, and she found it difficult to secure his attention long enough to produce any impression. Just before daylight Tarr, sleeping soundly, was awakened by a shot. He turned up and put out his hand to assure himself that his wife was safe below him. She was not there. Springing out of bed, he jumped into his pants and trousers, but had got on neither when he heard a number of scattered reports. He rushed out to find soldiers dumping over the side of the shipstacks and along into the sea.

LLOYD-GEORGE, BRITISH LEADER.

A sweeping victory for the Liberals in the general elections in Great Britain would make David Lloyd-George one of the foremost figures in English politics. Truly the chancellor of the exchequer already enjoys such distinction, but a victory over the peers, who opposed the budget so stubbornly, would place him upon the very pinnacle of fame. He is just in the prime of life, being in his forty-seventh year. He was president of the board of trade of London from 1905 to 1908, when he was made chancellor of the exchequer. He is a profound thinker, an ardent reformer and one of the ablest speakers in England.

A HABEAS CORPUS.

By ALBERT J. FORBES.

It was a well established fact that Kentucky must swing. No one cared what his real name was. He was the only man in the place bailing from the state whose hunters had whipped the British at the battle of New Orleans, and that was sufficient. His name had come out at the trial as Joe Bates, but this did not alter the fact that he was Kentucky. No one cared anything about him except Eliza Skemp, who kept a few boarders and had harbored him among them. It was currently reported that she was going to marry him or had married him or didn't care whether she was his wife or not.

Nobody seemed to consider it hard on Kentucky that it had fallen to his lot to swing for the general good. The citizens had determined that the next man to shoot and kill should be tried and convicted of murder—not tried and acquitted, mind you, but tried and convicted. That meant shooting was to be stopped by making an example. Kentucky had been playing for large stakes with a gambler who had come in the day before. The gambler pulled an ace out of his sleeve, and Kentucky saw him do it. It would have been all right if the gambler hadn't been so clumsy as to get caught. It was all right, too, for Kentucky to put a bullet between the gambler's eyes except for the decision of the citizens that the next man doing the shooting act must be made an example of. It was Kentucky's misfortune to be the next man.

There wouldn't have been much interest attached to the hanging if it hadn't been for Eliza Skemp. Kentucky had no sooner been sentenced than she went about trying to get people to sign a petition for a pardon. "What d'ye want to hang a man for," she said, "simply because he done the most natural thing in the world?"

"Right you are," everybody said. "What else could you expect under the circumstances," and they all signed the petition. Eliza got it signed by the whole community and took it to the governor of the territory.

"What's this," he says—"petition for pardon of Bates? That's mighty queer for the people of the town to convict a man to stop shooting and then ask me to pardon him. No, ma'am, Joe Bates is sentenced to swing on Friday, the 26th, at 12 o'clock, noon, and I'll be there myself to see that the job's done properly. It's time this territory, if it ever expects to become a state, should have some respect for law."

Liz saw that there was no use pleading, so she went away.

Now, Liz was no fool of a woman. Bates was a good for nothing sort of fellow, and it seems strange that she should have taken so much pains for him. She set such store by getting him off that two men in the town allowed they'd help her to carry out any plan she might set afoot. There wasn't any use trying to do anything by force, for the governor appeared in town the day before the hanging and swore in a lot of deputy sheriffs to see that the job wasn't interfered with.

The night before the hanging Liz set the watches of her two confederates half an hour back. She went to the jail for a last interview with Kentucky, and while the jailer's back was turned she set his clock back. The next morning her two confederates went about town comparing time with the citizens and convinced them all that their watches—those who had watches—were half an hour too fast. One of Liz's friends claimed to have come in from the capital with the government time.

On the morning of the hanging a friend of Liz's calls on the governor, passes the compliments of the season, asks him if he's tasted a julep since he left the States and ended by inviting him over to her house to take one. The governor accepted, and after partaking of the julep Liz's friend proposed that they should sit down to a small game to pass the time till the hour should come for the hanging.

They played and played, and while they were playing Liz came in, weeping copiously. She implored the governor on her knees, with the tears streaming down her cheeks, to give her Kentucky's body that she might give it a decent burial. The governor was "out" in the game and didn't want to be interrupted, so he said if she'd go away he'd attend to it. But she stuck to him, and the governor made up his mind if he wanted to get square he'd better get rid of her, so, calling for pen and paper, he wrote off an order to the sheriff to give the body of Joseph Bates to Eliza Skemp. Then he casually looked at his watch, and, seeing it was five minutes after 12, he started and exclaimed that he'd missed the hanging. He gave the order to Liz, and she makes for the jail mighty fast and gets there a quarter hour, according to the jailer's watch, before the execution time.

The jailer when he saw the governor's order to give the body of Joe Bates to Eliza Skemp didn't know what to do. "It's a habeas corpus," said Liz, "and there ain't no one dares to disobey that. It 'd be unconstitutional." The jailer didn't do anything, and Kentucky, he just marches out with Liz. They walked through a crowd that was waiting to see him hanged. One of Liz's confederates handed him a weapon, and the other confederate handed him another. Then Kentucky backed around a corner and hid out.

That was the last seen of Kentucky in these parts and the last seen of Liz.

GRAND ROUNDS.

By ROCKFORD KING.
[Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.]

Dixon Tarr at twenty-five had been collegian, explorer, prospector and miner. He had taken all sorts of risks and had not manifested the best of judgment. But who expects caution and daring in the same man, especially when passing out of his teens into his twenties? In one of his explorations into the southwesternmost part of the North American continent in trying to befriend the remnant of a tribe of Indians he had incurred their displeasure. He had picked up a valuable mine in their country, which he determined to work. Tarr was a man who when he set his heart on doing a thing no one could frighten him out of it, and he worked his mine, though the whole tribe had sworn to kill him. Then when he had proved its value he went north and married a wife.

Mrs. Tarr insisted on returning with him. To dissuade her he told her that the danger was too great to be incurred by a woman. He yielded and took her with him.

Tarr's mine was encircled by a stockade provided with watchtowers and properly loopholed, in each of which a sentry was kept day and night, while the guard remained below.

Mrs. Tarr was the only one in the inclosure who was keenly alive to danger. She soon noticed that the guard had fallen into indolence through inaction, and a failure of their enemies to show themselves had induced a feeling of security. She pointed out these things to her husband, but he was fascinated with his mine, which was showing remarkable results, and she found it difficult to secure his attention long enough to produce any reformation. He assured her that the Indians, who were degenerated from the valor of their forefathers, would not think of attacking white men provided with modern arms and protected behind a stockade.

But Mrs. Tarr was by no means satisfied. She constituted herself an officer of each and every day and night and went "grand rounds" frequently. The guard complained that a timid woman should be in their midst who interfered with a sentry taking cat naps on post; that she was so fearful of the impotent threat of a race far below the greasers as to worry herself and all the rest into an abnormal condition of fear. Some of these remarks she overheard, but they had no effect to make her relax discipline.

One night a sentry heard a slight stirring among the loose rocks surrounding the stockade—it was built in a rocky canyon—but, concluding that the intruder was some animal, he paid no attention to it. Presently he smelled a singular odor. Then he became drowsy. Other sentinels on his side of the stockade smelled the same odor and also fell asleep. They had not experienced the odor before and presumed it to be from some shrub they had never encountered.

Just before daylight Tarr, sleeping soundly, was awakened by a shot. He started up and put out his hand to assure himself that his wife was safe beside him. She was not there. Sprung out of bed, he jumped into his boots and trousers, but had got on neither when he heard a number of scattered reports. He rushed out to find Indians jumping over one side of the stockade and down into the inclosure. A few of the guard were pointing their rifles to receive them, and the balance were snatching theirs. From one of the towers came a rapid fire, which did the principal damage that was done the assailants.

It was all over in a few minutes. Not more than a dozen Indians got into the stockade, and they were shot down at once. The guard mounted the parapet to see a black mass of Indians ready to follow up the advantage that had been derived by their skirmishers. They were too late. The whites poured a volley into them, and, seeing the stockade manned, they disappeared in the gloom.

"My wife! My wife! Where's my wife?"

The cry came from Tarr. The question was not answered. The frightened husband sent men everywhere within the limited inclosure to seek her with out avail.

"My God, she has been carried off! There has been treachery. They came to take her from me, knowing that it would be a worse revenge than my murder."

"Here she is!" shouted a man who had climbed to a sentry box.

Tarr climbed the steps to see his wife lying in a dead faint. A few minutes before she had gone the grand rounds to find three sentries on one side of the stockade asleep, a smell of chloroform—the person who supplied it and taught the Indians its use was never found—and from one of the towers could distinguish Indian skirmishers within a hundred feet of the stockade. She fired a signal shot, killed a number of the first enemies to enter the fort and then when the fight was over collapsed.

It was plain that the life of every man in the inclosure had been saved by a woman, and that woman had been anathematized by every member of the guard. Had she not arrived on the scene in the very nick of time the advance of the Indians would have overpowered the guard and not a white person would have escaped. Mrs. Tarr was presented by those she had saved with a handsome jeweled sword appropriately inscribed. She had earned the right to take her husband back with her, and this in a very short time she did.

Nature has heard the call of spring; the baby pink is out on the maples and the little brown leaf buds are swelling on the hickory and deciduous oaks. The rain last night will so wonders for the lawns, which were seared by the frost, and in a wonderfully short season the last remnants of winter's dead rags will be replaced by the innumerable shades of the beautiful green in forest foliage. And while our less fortunate Northern friends are suffering all the discomforts of mid-winter we will be basking in the marvelous beauty and bloom-and music of Florida's early spring. "The flowers that bloom in the spring," have something to do with the case.

H. G. Fletcher returned last night ter at Hawks Park, was in the city Thursday, coming up by automobile.

Mr. Whitfield is an enthusiastic bee-the increasing yield from the mangrove and states that the latter was very fortunately, not injured by the recent severe weather.

INTERESTING PROGRAM THURS-

DAY AFTERNOON — FIFTEEN

NEW MEMBERS THIS YEAR.

The president, Mrs. Stillman, called the meeting of the Palmetto Club to order and announced the first number on the program would be selections by the Prince George orchestra.

The afternoon was called Daytona Authors. Mrs. C. C. Bohannon had charge of the music.

Mrs. Leland and Mrs. B. F. Marsh were the hostesses.

Dr. Leland gave a most delightful description of an entertainment he attended in England in 1830. Miss Gertrude ElloKgg read selections from the works of many prominent authors all of whom were present.
Dr. Leland gave a very impressive and interesting description of each of the authors and poets, as he was impressed by them, calling it pen pictures of noted men and women.

Mr. Lane sang a solo and responded to an encore. Mr. Lane has a very fine voice and his singing was much enjoyed. He was accompanied by Miss Willaume. Later Mrs.
Bohannon and Mr. Lane sang a duet.
Mrs. Bohannon is a delightful singer always listened to with pleasure.

One of the authors of the afternoon, Harrison Rhodes, was absent, but sent his selections, which was interesting and read by Mrs. E. T. Merrill. It was called Foot Notes to History and was an Italian story, being well written but full of pathos.

Edgar M. Condit read a chapter from his book, Two Years on Three Continents, giving a sketch of a trip through Norway, making all wish the could have taken the trip with Mr. and Mrs. Condit, up and down those grand mountains and over those splendid roads in that extra comfortable carriage.

The orchestra played several selections during the afternoon which were much appreciated.

Mrs. Bohannon and Mr. Lane sang a duet, the first number of which was "Streamlets Full of Flowers," and the second, "Nearest and Dearest," greatly enjoyed by all.

The orchestra then gave a selection and responded to an encore.

A charming original poem by Mrs.
Hester A. Bernard was read by Mrs.
Edna T. Bigelow. The poem was entitled, "A Fighting Chance is all I'll ask of Fate."

A social hour followed during which tea, coffee and cake were served.

There has been an addition of fifteen new members to the club this year.

Mr. Newell came up from New Smyrna in his car Wednesday night about 9:00 o'clock for Dr. French to attend a cow belonging to Mr. Sams.
The animal turned out to be a pure bred Jersey, and a pet of Mrs. Sams.
After several hours work Dr. French brought the pet around all right, but had to make a night of it at New Smyrna on account of train connections.

Another, also a 50-horse power car, was received at the same time for A.

Ridgewood avenue, and will probably be here this week.

Wm. M. Moore, writing to Mrs.
Moore from Lusit reports that the loss on his grove in this year's yield will not exceed twenty-five per cent.
He has decided not to put his oranges on the market until the frozen fruit is disposed of. Mr. Moore also reports Dr. Marsh's grove looking fine.

The Japanese tea at the Guild Tuesday afternoon was one of the prettiest and daintiest affairs possible, and was enjoyed by a bevy of ladies and a few gentlemen. Mesdames Chas. E. Gardiner and M. L. Stanley had the affair in charge, assisted by the Girls' Auxiliary. Cherry blossoms and chrysanthemums were the decorations for the tables. The Japanese costumes were strikingly becoming to Mrs. Gardiner and Mrs.
Stanley, also to the young ladies who waited, Misses Willaume and Ruth Keating. The service was beautiful and the tea a dream (Japanese).

Frederick M. Sammis, who was in the city between trains Tuesday on his way to Palm beach stopped over here again yesterday for a few hours with his brother, Edward M. Sammis and wife, who are conducting The Oaks this season. Mr. Sammis had been to Palm Beach to install the Marconi wireless system at the Breakers and was on his return to Norfolk when last here.
